

As dusk crept over the Massey campus last Wednesday, a multitude of students descended on the grounds; resigned to yet another night of hard study and toil. Blocking their way, however, was a large black screen. Certain that this feature did not exist just a few hours ago, the easily distracted students decided to hang around. Their curiosity further aroused by the arrival of a snack vending cart, they did what any study-loving students would do under the circumstances; drop everything and stick around.

Snacks cart!!!

This of course was the latest scheme from your very own student movie club at Massey; a nice distracting outdoor movie. Big screen showing of Pitch Perfect, free BBQ, popcorn and candy floss, plus a visit from the lovely ladies at Red Bull, what more could a careworn student want?

Hey look, it's me! No, the other one. Over there.

Me being the rock-dwelling hermit that I am, I knew nothing at all about Pitch Perfect, and so was somewhat apprehensive about sitting down to a couple hours of singing. I was pleasantly surprised however as the movie was actually pretty clever, not to mention having a pretty sweet lineup, the hottest of which would have to be..... but I digress. The movie was a great success, and with an attendance of roughly 200 students, was the biggest event to date for the Albany movie club. Notable attendees included none other than our very own ASA Student President; Andre Budel.

In the flesh.

Many thanks to Event Cinemas, Red Bull, and of course to El Presidente, without whom this would not have been possible. After some shrewd investigation I have managed to ascertain that the club is at least considering a repeat at some later date, but for now there are plenty more movie events in the pipeline. Just recently a group of over 50 members from the club took a trip to the cinemas for the new movie 300: Rise, and thoroughly enjoyed it. I hope to see you at the next event!
